

Valley Folk Music Society Presents...

Something Old, Something New

Four returning musicians and introducing two new ones

Saturday, October 19, 2024, at 7:30 pm

Concert at 144 Cedar Street, Corning

In the red-brick UM Church--door on First St.

Liz Simmons, a singer of dreamy original and traditional folk songs with guitar, has provided her sweet vocals on our stage as part of both Low Lily and Celtic group Long Time Courting.

Mike Agranoff is an astute singer-song-finder, and highly skilled multi-instrumentalist providing a very entertaining mix of traditional and contemporary folk Howie Bursen is a musically eclectic claw hammer banjo wiz with excellent skills as singer, song writer, guitarist who appeared on our stage with Sally Rogers.

Andy Cohen is a guitar virtuoso of the Rev. Gary Davis school, reiterating the songs of street corner evangelists and blues people from nearly a century ago.

Kim Wallach is a folksinger, children's musician and songwriter with diverse topics such as banned books or expressing keen observations of the natural world.

Wendy Grossman is an experienced folk singer whose life and songs come from both the US & the UK, arranges accompaniments to her strong singing on banjo, guitar and autoharp.

Tickets: General Admission $25; Patron $30; Student/Disabled/Hard Times $10.

For more information on this and future concerts and to purchase tickets online : valleyfolk.org
info@valleyfolk.org or (607) 962-4461

